THE REGION

Alentejo is the largest wine region in Portugal and also one of the most diverse, comprising eight sub-regions: Portalegre, Borba, Redondo, Reguengos, Évora, Vidigueira, Moura, and Granja-Amareleja. Its 22 thousand hectares of vineyards stretch across plains, hills, and mountains (S. Mamede, Ossa, and Mendro being the main ones) and are based on different types of soils: clay, limestone, marble, sands, schist, granite...

The climate is continental Mediterranean, with greater thermal amplitudes in the interior regions, closer to the border with Spain. The Alentejo vineyard reflects a wide variety of grape varieties, with predominance of the white Antão Vaz, Roupeiro, and Arinto, and the reds Aragonez, Trincadeira, Alicante Bouschet, Touriga Nacional, and Syrah.

WINEMAKING

Upon reaching the ideal ripeness of grapes, a night harvest is made to protect the aromatic profile and minimize oxidation. In the cellar, they are partially destemmed and crushed, creating a fresh and aromatic wort. Fermentation takes about 12 days, at a controlled temperature between 25°C and 28°C, without any addition of animal products.

TASTING NOTES

Ruby red color wine mature fruits aromas, the palate is well balanced with a smooth and warm structure.
